Your State Pension forecast

10 February 2017

Dear Mr Clark

You can get your State Pension on 2 December 2030
Your forecast is

£155.65 a week

£674.48 a month, £8,093.80 a year

Your forecast

- is not a guarantee
- is based on the current law
- does not include any increase due to inflation
- is based on your National Insurance record up to 5 April 2016

£155.65 a week is the most you can get

You cannot improve your forecast any more.

You may still need to pay National Insurance contributions until 2 December 2030 if you're working. They fund other state benefits and the NHS.

Your forecast may be different if there are any changes to your National Insurance information. There is more about this in the enclosed leaflet.

Proposed change to your State Pension age

You'll reach State Pension age on 2 December 2030. Under government proposals this may increase by up to a year.

Yours sincerely,

Newcastle Pension Centre, Futures Group

Your State Pension forecast

10 February 2017

Dear Mr Adamson

You can get your State Pension on 2 December 2020
Your forecast is

£127.94 a week

£554.40 a month, £6,652.88 a year

Your forecast

- is not a guarantee
- is based on the current law
- does not include any increase due to inflation
- does not include any pension sharing order you have in effect

You need to continue to contribute National Insurance to reach your forecast

Estimate based on your National Insurance record up to 5 April 2016

£110.15 a week

Forecast if you contribute until 5 April 2020

£127.94 a week

When you reach State Pension age on 2 December 2020, you no longer pay National Insurance contributions.

Your forecast may be different if there are any changes to your National Insurance information. There is more about this in the enclosed leaflet.

You can improve your forecast

You have previous years on your National Insurance record where you did not contribute enough.

To check your State Pension or National Insurance record at any time go to:

www.gov.uk/check-state-pension

- paying voluntary contributions can make these years count toward your State Pension and improve your forecast

The most you can improve your forecast to is

£141.28 a week

For more information on gaps in your National Insurance record, go to www.gov.uk/check-national-insurance-record

Proposed change to your State Pension age

You'll reach State Pension age on 2 December 2030. Under government proposals this may increase by up to a year.

Your Contracted Out Pension Equivalent

In the past you've been 'contracted out' of the additional State Pension.

When you were contracted out

- you and your employers paid lower rate National Insurance contributions, or
- some of your National Insurance contributions were paid into another pension scheme, such as a personal or stakeholder pension

The amount of additional State Pension you would have been paid if you had not been contracted out is known as the Contracted Out Pension Equivalent (COPE).

Your COPE estimate is

This will not affect your State Pension forecast. The COPE amount is paid as part of your other pension schemes, not by the government.

In most cases the private pension scheme you were contracted out to:

- will include an amount equal to the COPE amount
- may not individually identify the COPE amount

The total amount of pension paid by your workplace or personal pension schemes will depend on the scheme and on any investment choices.

Find out more about COPE and contracting out on www.gov.uk/government/publications/state-pension-fact-sheets

Your State Pension forecast

10 February 2017

Dear Mrs Green

You'll reach State Pension age on 2 December 2020

You may not be able to get any State Pension.

You have 3 years on your National Insurance record up to 5 April 2016. You need a minimum of 10 years on your record to get any State Pension. You won't be able to get these by 5 April 2020.

You also have 2 years on your record which do not count towards your State Pension because you did not contribute enough National Insurance. Filling these won't be enough to reach the 10 years needed to get any State Pension.

When you reach State Pension age on 2 December 2020, you no longer pay National Insurance contributions.

These details may be different if there are any changes to your National Insurance information. There is more about this in the enclosed leaflet.

What you can do next
